No end to Heather Drive...

The Wilmington Planning Board, on March 4, after a meeting with the North Reading Planning Commission, voted unanimously against a plan of discontinuance for a section of Heather Drive. The plan would discontinue 2.37 feet of Heather Drive, adjacent to the North Reading town line. There have been complaints on the part of residents that noisy uncensored motor vehicles and motorcycles have been using the street.

Four members of the North Reading board were present on March 4 to discuss the problem. Planning Director Ruth Kennedy did most of the talking. She discussed legal ramifications and certain property rights. She believes the town of Wilmington may not have the right to discontinue a public way, after it has accepted an Official Map.

Attorney Joseph Courtney was present, and he advised that, for the protection of Wilmington, the Planning Board should solicit the advice of Town Counsel. Courtney warned against possible suits for damages which could result if the street were discontinued. Courtney felt lawsuits could occur under the Municipal Tort Act.

It was his opinion that an effort to discontinue a section of Heather Drive would be an action of futility. It would not, he said, "address the complaints of the residents, that had prompted the proposal."

Courtney suggested that the police departments of the two towns could work together, to prevent motorcyclists and others from using the street.

To try to discontinue the street, he said, would be to remove the rights of people who had applied for building permits, and the use of municipal services and utilities which have already been installed in the subdivision. Discontinuance of Heather Drive would not, he said, eliminate its being used as a private way.

The North Reading board was asked by Louis Maglio as to the hardships that would occur, if the street were discontinued for 2.37 feet.

Mrs. Kennedy said that all persons owning land in the subdivision would be deprived of property rights; and this would include the Town of North Reading, since it owns one lot for recreation purposes.

Secondly, she pointed out, it would make the connecting street, Green Street, an illegal street, as required by the North Reading subdivision law. There would be no way to connect Green Street to another.

A third point was that the safety of the inhabitants would be affected. Closing off the street would prevent municipal and emergency vehicles from using it.

Mrs. Kennedy told the Planning Board that some lots of land had been bought by Ralph Newhouse, a Wilmington builder. Mr. Newhouse, last January, submitted a definitive plan, as required by law and it was approved and has been released for 15 house lots. So far, Newhouse has posted bond, and has built 13 homes. It is to be believed, she said, that the North Reading Town Meeting would have an article in the October meeting to accept Green Street.

It was after the discussion by Mrs. Kennedy that the Wilmington Planning Board unanimously voted to reject the proposal of discontinuing a section of Heather Drive.

Budget problem a hot issue at firehouse

A budget crisis in the Wilmington Fire Department resulted in the department running shifts with only six men during the past week.

The situation has been remedied by a $2000 emergency appropriation voted on Thursday night by the Wilmington Finance Committee, and a Special Town Meeting warrant approved by the Selectmen on Monday night. The Special Town Meeting will be held during the Annual Town Meeting on April 26. At that time, the town will be asked to appropriate $10,000 to fund the Fire Department for the remainder of the fiscal year.

The shortage of funds showed up in the call fire account, and in the vacations and sick leave. Two men have been out on extended illness. One of them has asked to retire, and the county retirement board has been slow on acting on the retirement request. As a result, the man is still being paid by the town, even though his services are not available.

An added factor has been a very dry winter, with a large number of brush fires on land that ordinarily would be snow-covered.

The Fire Department seeks to staff each of its shifts with eight men.

When a situation arises where several men are busy on calls, off-duty men are called in on an overtime hourly basis to cover the station. And when men are either out sick or on vacation, men are called in from other shifts to fill out the shift. The fire department works in four shifts, each shift working two 10 hour days, two 14 hour nights, with four days off.

As a result of the budgetary crisis, shifts have been cut back to six men. While no men have been cut from the payroll, fewer or no off-duty men are brought in to make up the shortages caused by the illnesses.

That situation is expected to be remedied almost immediately. The budget change must be approved by the director of accounts for the state Department of Corporations and Taxation. The Selectmen Monday night directed Town Manager Sterling Morris to hand carry the town's request, on Tuesday.

Under mutual aid agreements, fire departments will not honor mutual aid calls from any department where there has been a cutback in staff. Because Wilmington had a temporary situation and was working to correct it, that problem was not expected to arise.

...or to the question

"I would hope that the North Reading people would go back to their boards and help us solve our problem," said Rocco DePasquale, chairman of the Wilmington Board of Selectmen.

The problem he was referring to is traffic, some of it speeding, on Heather Drive. Residents of that street have asked the Wilmington selectmen to discontinue the street at the North Reading town line. On Monday night, the selectmen held a hearing on the discontinuance of the street.

Heather Drive is located in the Lucaya Estates subdivision, off Park Street in North Wilmington. When many of the residents of the Wilmington end of the subdivision moved in, Heather Drive was a dead end. Since then, the subdivision and the street has been extended into North Reading. The street was connected to an existing street in North Reading, and Heather Drive residents have found themselves living on a busy thoroughfare.

With Wilmington residents of the subdivision wanting the road blocked, North Reading residents are concerned that access to their homes might be cut off. The access through the older streets of North Reading is said to be less than adequate. The road was described as being bad enough that even the mail truck goes around, coming into the North Reading end of the subdivision through Wilmington.

The question of closing the road has raised some legal questions. Wilmington Town Counsel Alan Altman prepared a letter to the town manager giving the opinion that the residents could petition the selectmen to prepare a warrant article to discontinue a portion of the public way. But Altman recommended that the selectmen not construct any barricades that could be a source of injury to travelers, because of potential liability problems.

Mrs. Kennedy, an employee of the North Reading Planning Commission, said that the Wilmington Planning Board and the North Reading commission had worked together on approving the subdivision. She said that the North Reading residents of the subdivision were guaranteed access in the deed from the Andersen brothers to Lucaya.

Selectman James Banda, an attorney, said that the discontinuance of the street would create a legal problem. The proposal called for the town to abandon ownership of approximately three feet by 50 feet, across the street at the North Reading town line. If the town were to abandon ownership, then who would erect and maintain a barricade. Who would be responsible for the land? He said that the ownership would revert to the previous owner, if he was willing to accept it.

The selectmen heard from Wilmington residents and from North Reading residents. Ralph Williams was the first person to speak in the hearing. He lives in Sparhawk Drive, at the corner of Heather Drive in Wilmington. He said that when the subdivision was under construction, a car nearly hit his house. He had not moved in at the time.

"The speeds are between excessive and ridiculous," Williams said.

"There are a lot of young children, and I don't feel that we should have to put up with it."

DePasquale polled the two residents who immediately abut the piece of land that would be involved in closing the road. Both were in favor of the closing.

Ralph Newhouse, trustee for Carriage Way Realty Trust, said that he would be in favor of speed bumps in the road.

Jack Fitzgerald, a North Reading resident spoke, asking for a compromise. "All I've heard tonight is 'shut 'em off!'" he said.

After two speakers called the North Reading Planning Commission to fault for their handling of the subdivision, North Reading planner Donnelly countered that the problem was not a planning problem but a police problem.

Selectman Aldo Cairra noted, "There has to be something radically wrong in North Reading if the mail truck can't get through."

Robert Maleszyk, a Wilmington resident, proposed that the road in North Reading, connecting the older streets with the subdivision, be shut off.

Rocco DePasquale then jokingly offered to swap the "Lost Colony" to North Reading for the subdivision. The "Lost Colony" is a section of Wilmington which can only be reached by way of the Martin's Pond area of North Reading.

DePasquale said that the problem arises in North Reading, and should be solved in North Reading. He added that it would make sense to divert any traffic from that road that did not come from the subdivision.

The matter was tabled on a motion of Cairra, for questions of legalities. The selectmen are also asking for a report from the chief of police.

Bridge work

Workmen remove a pipe from the road surface on Route 129. Concrete is pumped through the pipe, to fill pockets that developed beneath the road surface during the sewer construction.

Road will sink no more

The problem of the sinking road at the Fred F. Cain Bridge on Route 129 is well on its way to correction.

The Guild Drilling Company has been drilling holes in the road surface, on a grid pattern, and pumping cement into the ground under high pressure. The surface of the road has raised with the pressure of the cement.

The problem of the sinking road began after a sewer line was installed under the bridge. The trunk line sewer crosses under Route 129, 48 feet below the surface of the road. When the sewer was being installed two years ago, it was necessary to blast in order to "jack" the sewer line under the road. The blasting disturbed the soil in the approach to the Route 129 bridge over the railroad, which was built in 1973. Soil stabilizers were added, but to no avail. Holes kept appearing in the roadway, as the soil would gradually settle into pockets.

The sewer contractor, Pacella Bros., at first was performing the work of filling the holes as they appeared. However, Pacella has gone into default on the sewer contract, and the Wilmington Water and Sewer Commissioners were left with the job of correcting the problem. Pacella and the town are now suing each other.

The contract to correct the situation is open-ended, depending on the amount of cement that must be pumped into the ground. It is estimated that the bill will come in at between $50,000 and $60,000. The work is expected to be complete by the end of the week.

PRD article in town warrant

The final draft of the Planned Residential Zoning has been approved, and is now being prepared for the Warrant of the annual Town Meeting. The Wilmington Planning Board has been engaged, for some months, in a study of the proposed zoning, the objective of which is to allow a greater flexibility in the planning of land for residential purposes.

As written it will allow for three and a half dwelling units per acre. This is less density than is now allowed under the present Single Residence A Zoning in Wilmington, which allows four units per acre.

The proposed article allows the Town Meeting to closely regulate any proposed PRD district in Wilmington, prior to construction. Each PRD district will have to be voted on by itself, as a town meeting article. This in addition to the adoption of the new bylaw.

An answer to the prayer of a housing developer it is not.

Any developer will have to submit multiple copies of his plans to the town clerk to be studied by the Town Meeting before voting. The tract of land has to be at least 15 acres in size, and handy to a sewer main. Without municipal sewerage there will be no PRD development.

But the zoning will allow a variety of buildings on the same lot, something that is not allowed today in Wilmington, and there will be tracts of land set aside as Common Open Space, for the use of all the inhabitants of that particular PRD development. In order to achieve this there will be a corporation or other trust, to own the land in common, and to pay the taxes and arrange for upkeep. The corporation or trust will have elected officers, which possibly could result in some election politics among the inhabitants of any PRD district. This in addition to the usual political elections in Wilmington as a whole.

The PRD zoning as proposed will also apply to the construction of multiple dwelling housing for the aged, by the Wilmington Housing Authority. There are some special provisions, in the proposed bylaw.

The Wilmington Housing Authority has the right to do this, under the present bylaw. It does not seem that additional authority is needed.

Concert Thursday night

A concert celebrating National Music in our Schools Week will be held at the Barrows Auditorium at Wilmington on Thursday evening, March 13 at 7:30.

Featured on the program will be the combined voices of the Wilmington High School Concert Choir, the Wilmington Intermediate Select Chorus and the Methuen Community Chorus. The choruses, under the direction of Mrs. Carol Prasad, Mrs. Sandra Niemi, Mrs. Debbie Stolar, Miss Kathleen Tucker, and Miss Linda Jackson will offer selections in keeping with three main themes.

Joining with the choruses will be the Wilmington High School String Ensemble under the direction of Dom DeGrazia, and accompanied by Miss Lorraine Kalil.

The Wilmington High School Jazz Band, under the direction of Miss Barbara Mette will round out the concert with their renditions of "Bandstand Boogie," and "Shadow Dancing."

The concert is free of charge.

Tewksbury Health Board

The Tewksbury Board of Health has issued a bit of advice for cat owners. The recent case of a rabid cat in the Boston area is the first in 67 years which probably indicates that the disease in this area is not prevalent, but cat owners should have their felines inoculated against rabies every year. The vaccine is perfectly safe.

Another note from the Tewksbury Health Board warns that the approach of spring and summer should cause residents to give some thought to their septic systems which should be pumped out at least every three years.

Dean's list

Two Wilmington students have been named to the dean's list at the University of Maine at Orono for the fall semester.

Included on the listing were Laura Frost of Lowell Street and Michael Cavaretta of Ballardvale Street.

Miceli to address C of C

Representative James R. Miceli (D) Tewksbury and Wilmington will address the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce on March 20 at the Casa di Fior.

The representative is currently serving his second term in the House and serves on the Committee on Human Services and Elder Affairs. During the last two years, Rep. Miceli has been the recipient of the Legislator of the Year Award by the Massachusetts Municipal Association. He has also been named the representative with the best tax issues voting record by the Citizens for Limited Taxation, and won the Distinguished Service Award by the Tewksbury Jaycees.

His talk will address an update of the Relocation of Route 129 and the latest proposal before the Department of Transportation relative to the creation of new access routes on Route 93. The local representative has played a leadership role in the shaping of the current proposals before the Department of Transportation.

Spotlighters casting for "Same Time Next Year"

The Spotlighters of Wilmington are casting the roles of Doris and George in the poignantly funny comedy "Same Time Next Year." Bernard Slade chose a title for his play that aptly summarizes the curious relationship between his two characters - each follows separate paths in life except for a collision only once a year, every year for a weekend affair! Auditions for this show, Wilmington's 1980 Dinner-Theater offering, are at their temporary home base in North Woburn, the North Congregational Church, 386 Main St., (Rt. 38) North Woburn at 7 p.m. on March 12.

Selectman John Imbimbo seeks re-election

A. John Imbimbo has announced his candidacy for re-election to the Wilmington Board of Selectmen for a three year term. A 42-year resident of the town, married to the former Margaret Duggan and father of Diana (former school committee member), John E. Imbimbo and Betsy Woods.

He is a veteran of World War II having served in the American, European and Pacific theatres. He was elected to the Board of Selectmen in March, 1977 while employed as a police lieutenant and retired June 1978 after 33 years of service on the Wilmington Police Department. During his career as a policeman he advanced from patrolman to sergeant to lieutenant. His education as an officer of the law included Bloomberg's Police School; attended F.B.I., state and local seminars; North Eastern University, Police Supervision; Harvard University Extension, Criminal Law and Procedure, and a graduate of Babson Institute in Command Training.

He devoted many hours to counseling and guiding the youth of Wilmington and still found time to serve on the board of directors of the Wilmington Community Fund; vice president of the Wilmington Family Counseling Service; Town Credit Union loan officer; Personnel Advisory Board; president Community Action Agency; local secretary Mass. Police Association, and a member of the K of C Council 4882.

As a parent, grandparent and home owner, Imbimbo says he is greatly concerned about the management of tax dollars in this period of skyrocketing inflation. Careful planning of town services is a must, he says. Other concerns of his include proper programs and facilities for the youth of the town and the encouragement of small business and industry to help offset the ever increasing tax rate.

According to Mr. Imbimbo it has been an honor and a privilege to have served Wilmington for the past three years during which many controversial issues arose. He says that he feels that he acted with responsibility and served effectively with sincerity on those many issues. Mr. Imbimbo seeks the support of the people of Wilmington again this year in his effort to serve on the board of selectmen.

Anne Linehan candidate for selectman

Mrs. Anne D. Linehan, 21 Dadant Drive, a resident of Wilmington for 10 years, was the first candidate to turn in her nomination papers for Board of Selectmen. Anne is married and the mother of three school age children. As an employer of Temporary Employee Personnel, Mrs. Linehan works as an executive secretary and personnel recruitment coordinator and other temporary contract administrative assistance positions.

"Citizenship in a free country is a blessing from God. Our system of self-government should assure every person a choice in the affairs of their local and national government. Many social and environmental issues have been ignored and even ridiculed by members of our current Board of Selectmen. More and more large companies seem to be served while the concerns of the residents are scoffed at.

Our water supply is not only in jeopardy of permanent pollution but depletion as well. I believe industry can make many improvements and adjustments with their usage of water in both manufacturing and air conditioning units. One industry in Wilmington uses 5,332,000 gallons (that is, five million, three hundred and thirty-two) of Wilmington's drinking water a year. That is only one statistic recently checked with the Water Department.

There is no coordination between the various Human Services Agencies now involved in Wilmington. A great deal of money is being put into these programs and the right hand does not know what the left hand is doing. They spend a great deal of time trying to justify their existence separately rather than working together.

The crime rate, house breaks and vandalism is still on the increase and various committees have been ineffective in dealing with these problems head on. A neighborhood watch program which has been most effective in reducing crime in cities throughout the United States should be put in service immediately. We do not need more committees to discuss these problems nor do we need more laws - we need higher standards for our current police force, better trained personnel and enforcement of present laws.

In this day and age it is folly to narrow our concerns to our own family, ethnic group, or our own economic class. I promise to be a strong independent voice and represent all the residents of Wilmington.

Her past community service involvements have been...Past Chairwoman of the Greater Lowell Chapter of the National American Mother's Committee, Red Cross Disaster Aid Coordinator, serving the South Shore during the 1978 blizzard.

appointed volunteer to Chicago Model Cities Planning Commission, 1968 in Health Planning, Coordinator Youth Opportunity Job Corps and leader in National Junior Achievement 1967-68 and Public Relations Director for the South Lawndale Community Interest Committee in the inter city of Chicago.

During the Dukakis administration and under the guidance of Jack Leff, Secretary of Elderly Affairs Anne brought the State Director of Council on Aging before the Board of Selectmen and Golden Agers and subsequently placed an article before the Town Meeting to establish a Council on Aging in Wilmington. This has proven to be a most successful program for the senior citizens in Wilmington.

Prompting the Town of Wilmington through much planning and coordination with the DPW another vital problem was solved at the Town Meeting with an article for a 10-year sidewalk building program to protect the children going to and from school. This project was completed on schedule in 1979.

Anne's concerns for updating and giving adequate Civil Defense to the residents of Wilmington is public knowledge and in 1978 she supported Congressman Tsongas on H.R. 217 which would ensure the DCPA money for disaster planning and C.D. throughout the Commonwealth. She visited with Senator Tsongas in Washington and the National American Red Cross Disaster Services Center in April of 1979 to be certain Mass. was more adequately prepared for natural disasters such as the Blizzard of '78. Plus attending a seminar of Civil Defense with regard to hazardous chemicals.

Being forthright and frank Anne has always relied on prayer to help her be confident and have courage and be cheerful. One of her favorite people was Harry Truman and the story in 1944 when the people of this nation said "Give 'em hell, Harry," they would shout, but Harry Truman knew better. "I never give them hell. I just tell the truth and they think it is hell."

My concern for the welfare of my fellow man has always been a part of my heritage and upbringing in the Christian-Judeo ethic. To me entering this election is a matter of stewardship and I welcome the opportunity to serve the needs of all the people of Wilmington, she says.

Let's begin this new decade with a new spirit of dedication and service in the town government and among one another.

Board of Selectmen
Rocco DePasquale,
Chairman

letter to the editor

Dear Larz:

This letter contains some thoughts, facts and figures on a critical situation that exists in the Wilmington Fire Department. It will affect the lives of citizens in the Town of Wilmington in the immediate future and should be taken to heart.

We have been told we must further reduce manning levels to six men per shift, which was last seen in 1966. This is a result of tunnel vision on the part of our illustrious Finance Committee.

This is 1980; our project emergency responses will exceed 2,000 this year, however, budgetary hatchet men see fit to recommend monies that cause us to man the fire department at 1966 levels (a year in which total responses were 804).

Winter weather conditions have, unfortunately, caused an increased workload. In the first two months of 1980, our fire department has fought 138 more brush fires; 11 more building fires and sent assistance out of town 11 more times than the same time period in 1979.

For the reader's edification: Eight men are scheduled for each duty shift (four shifts). With the advent of eight man shifts, so came the practice of running short. When one man is out sick or on vacation, we have only seven men working. This has been going on since 1977. Now, however, because of financial near-sightedness, the town manager expects us to maintain six man shifts. Seven man shifts give six men to a building fire (if no one is on another run) or enough men for two other runs provided nothing else is reported. If either of these two situations arise, the only person left at the station is the dispatcher. In order to provide for any other emergency, man must be called in from off-duty shifts. This happens on the average of seven times every 24 hours in 1980. This clearly indicates that there is an inadequate number of men on duty at any given time on the Wilmington Fire Department. Now, we are told to run with six men per shift. To that I say to the Town Fathers that the horse drawn steamer is gone, and today we are operating diesel fire apparatus.

I address the issue in this manner.

As a fire fighter you accept certain risks that go with the most hazardous profession in America. In order to function as a combat fire fighter you must put your life on the line, but at least with someone to back you up, you are willing to take that risk. When you fall through a burned out ceiling or floor, or cut your leg on a broken beer bottle, or pull a muscle dragging and lifting heavy hose and equipment, you begin to realize the risks are real. When you wake up in a hospital and the only thing you remember is dragging a hose line up to a smoky building fire, or when you get out of a chair and your back reminds you of that house fire at eight o'clock one Sunday morning, you wonder why you take the risks. When someone vomits in your mouth and you spit it out and continue performing CPR, you know you took the job to save lives. When you hold the broken and bleeding bodies of those who die needlessly, you wonder where the hell are the fire department critics. You never become used to pain and tragedy - you just accept it.

Up until now I have accepted the hazards of being a fire fighter, but Russian roulette now becomes suicide, as we face the six man shift directive. I am not willing to increase my wife's already above normal chances of becoming a widow. I will work my scheduled 42 hour work week as expected of me and hope to fair well, but I will not work any overtime and jeopardize my life any more than necessary because of decreased manning practices. Furthermore, if money is the problem, the Town Manager can save any paltry amount of overtime he thought was compensating me for endangering my life.

This letter expresses my feelings on a deadly serious issue, and I think it is time people carefully consider the following phrase:

"What if you had a fire - and nobody came?"

This may become a reality due to Sterling Morris' most recent cut back to a six man shift.

John Brown, Jr.

Note: In the early 1960's - I believe 1963, the Fire Underwriter's Insurance Rating Group recommended minimum manning of 10 fire fighters per shift for Wilmington. I reiterate this is 1980.

One-man band to entertain Womens' Club

A fun-packed program is promised to Wilmington Womens' Club members and their guests at the club's annual Guest Night to be held Wednesday, March 19 at the Wilmington Methodist Church.

Jerry Coyle, a one-man band, will present a versatile musical variety show entitled "Night at the Pops." The show will feature an extraordinary musical finale, with solos on a dozen different instruments, some two and three at a time.

The evening will start at 7:30 p.m. with President Mrs. Julia A. Fielding presiding. Coffee and refreshments will be served by Mrs. Sally Cosman and her committee.

Playground at Woburn St. School bothers parents

North Wilmington residents packed the Town Hall Monday night, complaining to the selectmen of the conditions on the playground at the Woburn Street School.

Mrs. Leslie Chiampi brought a box of debris that she had collected on the playground, in only about five minutes. Much of it broken glass, the remains of beer bottles.

Mrs. Anne Linehan told the selectmen that she had been in contact with the National Guard. She said that they would be willing to provide bulldozers and men to grade the playground, if the town would grant a "hold harmless permit." She said that she had also been in contact with John Lucci, in regard to some loam. Lucci has been engaged in excavating and filling the former Bobby Barrows lot at Woburn and Lowell streets, and has quite a bit of loam.

The warrant for the Annual Town Meeting contains a capital appropriation of $8000 for a fence for the playground. That figure could be amended on the town meeting floor by anyone. Mrs. Linehan said that the work she proposed would cost the town about $35,000.

Last year, the Town Meeting voted against a proposed $26,000 to rebuild the Shawshen School playground. Selectman Aldo Cairra asked how many had been at the Town Meeting and how many had voted for the $26,000.

"I would like to see all of you there, backing this," he said.

Bob Doyle said that he had spoken against the $26,000. "I don't know of any person in charge of those fields once school closes," he said. "Also, I don't know of any children who throw beer bottles."

New officers

Stress management program at Health Center

"The picture of the worried executive under stress is largely a myth," says Psychologist Andrea Norkus. "Everyone experiences stress, and it is sometime more of a problem among the lower level workers who are not satisfied by neighbors, or by people at home who suffer from boredom."

Dr. Norkus, a clinical psychologist with the Bay Area Psychiatric Associates, is referring to one of the topics to be covered at a program on stress management starting March 17, under the joint sponsorship of her Associates and the Regional Health Center in Wilmington.

The purpose of the program is to give a comprehensive view of coping mechanisms and to train participants in practical stress management techniques that can be used in real life situations.

Dr. Norkus says that stress is not necessarily harmful, but unchecked, can cause disease. She warns that hypertension, migraine headaches, heart disease, colitis and ulcers can result from prolonged and excessive stress.

Among the methods that she recommends for reducing stress are exercise, talking about problems with a friend or loved one, balancing work with relaxation, and taking a relaxation break at work instead of a coffee break. She also says that those less susceptible to stress usually maintain and develop what she calls 'stability zones' that may center around religion, home or neighborhood.

The program is conducted in four, three hour sessions on March 17, 20, 24 and 27, either in the morning from 9:00 to noon, or in the evening from 7:00 to 10:00. The complete program is also scheduled in two six hour sessions on consecutive Saturdays, March 22, and 29 from 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.

Further information can be obtained by calling the Health Education Department at the Regional Health Center, 657-3910 Ext. 567.

Classes canceled for March 22

There will be no CCD classes at the High School on Saturday morning, March 22, for the students of St. Thomas Church. The teachers will be attending a Religious Education Congress at Austin Prep.

The keynote speaker at the congress will be the Reverend Joseph M. Champlin, followed by seminars in "Moral Education," "Special Education in the Parish," "Prayer in the Family" and "The Joys and Heroics of Junior High" to name just a few.

Anyone interested in attending this congress can pre-register by calling St. Thomas at 658-4665. The fee is $7.00.

People seek to buy town land

About a dozen articles have been submitted to the town clerk asking that the Wilmington town meeting sell town owned land to private individuals in Wilmington.

Most of the requests are for average sized lots of land.

Mark C. Moon at Parris Island

Marine Pvt. Mark C. Moon, son of Edwin J. and Ann C. Moon of 7 Heather Dr., Wilmington has completed recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island, S.C.

During ten and one-half weeks of training he learned the basics of battlefield survival, and was introduced to the typical daily routine that he will experience during his enlistment and studied the personal and professional standards traditionally exhibited by Marines.

He participated in an active physical conditioning program and gained proficiency in a variety of military skills, including first aid, rifle marksmanship and close order drill. Teamwork and self-discipline were emphasized throughout the training cycle.

A 1976 graduate of Medford High School, he joined the Marine Corps in November, 1979.

Rep. Jim Miceli struck a formidable pose as he prepared to present the Minutemen spontoon to the company sergeant during installation ceremonies of the Wilmington Minutemen Sunday afternoon. The spontoon is a symbol of office for the sergeant.

A new old piano for Roger Wilmington businessman Roger Hayden is a man of talent. He plays the piano at Rotary meetings. On occasion he can make remarks that are remembered.

Roger does have problems. To play the piano at Rotary he has to use a steel chair which is not only uncomfortable, but cold. In some sympathy the club recently bought him a seat warmer - the kind one sees at football games.

But more than the seat, the piano in the Wilmington Masonic Hall is a problem. Some keys when hit make no sound at all. In other cases it is suspected the piano player is wearing mittens.

Last week the club provided Roger with a brand new piano. It was only fifty years old.

Also, last week, was a guest with musical talents. Dom DeGrazia, teacher, band leader and composer, directs the Wilmington schools musical programming. In this he has a flair. He is a friend to all.

Dom was present to inspect the new gift.

Dom agreed with Roger that the old piano was not worth keeping. Now all that has to be done is to have Roger convince Dom that the new piano is.

And it comes out here Dom DeGrazia (left) and Roger Hayden discussing the good points of the piano at Wilmington Rotary. Roger, it seems, has to be convinced.

Attended conference

Members of the Office Education Association at Wilmington High School set off bright and early Sunday morning for a two day conference and competition at the Radisson Ferncroft in Danvers.

Students in office skills competition

Earning over $200 at their Type-a-thon, Office Education Association (OEA) members from Wilmington High School participated in a two-day state competition in Business Activities held Sunday and Monday, March 9 and 10 at the Radisson-Ferncroft in Danvers.

The OEA students held their Type-a-thon in order to help defray expenses for their trip. As is the practice in a walk-a-thon, students earned money from their "sponsors" for the time they typed.

The OEA is a high school and post-secondary organization designed to encourage interest in and understanding of the business world.

Attending the conference with Ms. Ann Simmons, advisor, were 10 students who successfully qualified at a regional competition in Wakefield and 12 additional students skilled in accounting, etc. which was not part of the Wakefield competition.

Competition at the state level included accounting and business mathematics activities, stenography and transcription, an interview simulation and extemporaneous speaking.

"Marchfest" at North Intermediate

March often seems to be lackluster month. Yet the North Intermediate School Student Council, under the direction of Miss Carol Kivlan, and Frank Birmingham, is helping make this an interesting and exciting time of the year, with their sponsorship of "Marchfest."

The school has been divided into four teams, each team consisting of two eighth and two seventh grade homerooms. These teams are competing in athletic and academic events. The first week of "Mar-chfest" March 3 through 7 evoked great enthusiasm from both students and teachers. Boys' volleyball, girls' volleyball, chess and ping pong were among the activities scheduled. This first week's competition was culminated with a Social Studies College Bowl similar to the 1960's television show, "The College Bowl."

The upcoming week's activities will include boys' basketball, girls' basketball, and the math science college bowl.

Another championship heartbreaker for Wilmington Midgets

The final score read Woburn 2, Wilmington Midgets 1. For the second year in a row the Wilmington skaters had fallen just short of the State Division II title, this time with just 11 players on hand to help contend for that championship that saw the team playing five games over this weekend at the WYIA.

Wilmington posted wins over Danvers, Neponset and Arlington enroute to the semifinals Sunday morning when they topped Melrose to advance to the title game with Woburn later that day.

The 15 through 16-year-old team coached by Bill Wolfe, Ray Gaud and Pete Smith, played solid hockey throughout the weekend, backboned by the work of goalies Scott Campbell and Rich Carbone.

The path to the championship game:

Wilmington 9-Danvers 0
Bill Robinson came up with two goals and three assists for five points while Mike Stokes, Ronnie Greenberg and Jeff Stoffer had one goal each and one assist apiece.

Brian McLean notched two goals and Mike Crimmins and George Boudreau had one goal each. Bob Williams also had an assist.

Wilmington 10-Neponset 1
Frank Newark and Mike Stokes each scored the hat trick, while George Boudreau, Jeff Stoffer, Bill Robinson and Bob Williams all scored for Wilmington.

Bill Robinson led the assist parade with three, Mike Stokes two, Frank Newark, George Boudreau, Mike Crimmins and Ron Cahill one each.

Wilmington 5-Arlington 3
This was a must win game for the Midgets as Arlington also had won two games.

Frank Newark scored at 11:46 with help from Mike Stokes and Bill Robinson before Arlington knotted the score at 1-1 at 9:20 of the first period.

Arlington jumped out to take a 2-1 lead at 11:33 of the second period. Bill Robinson then knotted the score at 2-2 at 3:03 from Brian McLean.

Again Arlington came back at 1:18 of the third period to take the lead before Bob Williams scored from Brian McLean to knot the score, 3-3.

With time running out, forwards Frank Newark and George Boudreau were sent out to kill a penalty. Boudreau then broke up the play at the blue line and scored the winning goal behind a surprised Arlington goalie at 3:23. Arlington pulled their netminder later as Jeff Stoffer got the insurance open-net goal to ice the game.

Semifinals

Wilmington 3-Melrose 1
Melrose came up with a first period lead before the Midgets scored with three unanswered goals in the third frame.

Frank Newark with two and Bob Williams one goal put the Midgets into the finals. Brian McLean, Mike Stokes, George Boudreau and Ronnie Cahill each had assists.

Championship

Woburn 2-Wilmington 1
It was a tie game after the first period as Woburn scored first at 4:31. Mike Stokes knotted the score at 2:19 from Ron Cahill and Frank Newark.

It remained a 1-1 stalemate until 5:13 of the third period when Woburn's John Sanborn scored the game winner.

Bernier and Murphy helped lead coach Barry Sheehan's Tewksbury girls to a 14-6 record and a berth in the Eastern Mass Tournament while Miss Rowe was Wilmington's leading scorer for the past two seasons and helped coach Tom Beaton's crew to a pair of wins over Tewksbury.

TMHS senior forward Sheila Coleman earned honorable mention for her steady performance during

Tewksbury sophomores Bernier and Murphy

From the basement to the big time

by Rick Cooke
The tiny black-haired girl, beats a defender with a Bird-like move along the baseline, goes up off the wrong foot and banks the ball neatly off the glass for two points that signals the start of another Tewksbury High School girls basketball comeback.

The lanky blonde picks off an offensive rebound, squares herself to the basket and scores to cut what once was a 17 point lead to five.

Following the bucket she turns to help a teammate with a trapping fullcourt press, forcing a jump ball that she wins with 39 seconds left. Her teammate, that guard again - then immediately charges the referee, screaming 'timeout' just inches from the official's nose.

The Tewksbury girls comeback falls short in the last game of the season, a 58-54 loss to Wilmington. But the character and genuine basketball ability of a pair of sophomores stands out again for a team that qualified for the Eastern Mass Tournament with a 14-6 record.

"They always give you 100 percent."

The guard is Patty Murphy. The center is Jerrie Bernier. Batman and Robin, Starsky and Hutch, the Lone Ranger and Tonto - I thought about beginning this piece detailing the rise of some mythical, rather typical superheroes.

The superheroes of legend however have just one thing in common with Jerrie and Patty - they were all friends having worked and played together for a few years. There is nothing mythical about this Tewksbury duo - they're real people doing a very real job - helping to lead a Tewksbury basketball team for the next two winters.

A year ago the pair, both of whom just turned 16, were leading a

Just one year ago

Jerrie Bernier and Patty Murphy led their freshmen girls team to a 13-1 record. One year later they were in the varsity lineup of a tournament team.

Tewksbury freshmen basketball team coached by Donna Tanner to a 13-1 record and a championship, with Murphy setting a league record with 271 points for a 20.8 per game average.

Jerrie was the center on that championship team, averaging 10.8 points and 18 rebounds, clearing the boards and triggering the fast break and aggressive defense that was sure to fit right in with varsity coach Barry Sheehan's style of play. Her Pride and Leadership Award as a freshman was well deserved.

Last year as freshmen all the signs of two very promising basketball players were posted. Tanner, their coach last year, was one of the people who saw that a winning team could be built around the talented duo.

"You couldn't find two finer athletes. Their biggest asset is that they always give 100 percent, and they always want to learn more," offered Tanner.

"They worked hard over the summer to get to the varsity level.

Actually I thought this would be more of a learning year for them," said their former coach.

The fast learners fit in

It was a learning year - for about four or five games. Varsity coach Barry Sheehan, who has been watching Patty and Jerrie play ball since they started as fifth graders in the first year of the Tewksbury Recreation Basketball program, quickly found out that his two sophs were fast learners.

Patty led the varsity in steals with 60 while averaging 11.7 points (13.5-MVC) for the season and being named to the MVC All-Star team.

Jerrie also was named to the MVC All-Star squad, with a 13.7 points per game average (15.1-overall). The TMHS center also hauled down an average of 13 rebounds per game.

It's unusual for two sophomores to crack a high school varsity lineup - let alone make an All-Star team in their first year of varsity competition.

Their coach was one person who saw the chance for the two to become outstanding players early in their varsity careers.

"The big thing about Jerrie and Patty is their rate of improvement. I've been watching them play since they were in the fifth grade - the first year of the Recreation program - right up until they were freshmen. You could tell then that they were going to be good players, no question," said Sheehan.

Jerrie and Patty faced the immediate problem that confronts any sophomore who is good enough to play a varsity sport - the placing of a senior on the bench to make room for a youngster with obvious ability.

From the basement to the big time from page nine

The two sophomores, together with their senior teammates Doreen Gacek, Meg Ryan and Joy Cobleigh, who were faced with limited playing time this winter, handled the situation with class.

"They just fit perfectly into our situation as sophomores," offered Sheehan. "Their success hasn't affected them or the team. It was tough for the seniors on this team. It's not often that you have sophomores move right up and play at the varsity level."

"They know how to act. They're well adjusted, very competitive kids, and they earned the team's respect. We avoided what could have been a touchy situation - that's what I've been happiest about," said Sheehan.

Basement basketball
Jerry and Patty's first practice court was the Murphy's cellar, where as fifth graders the pair began their roundball road to success.

"We used to go down Patty's cellar and play," offered Jerrie. We'd shoot up against a wall. We still do sometimes - we did it last Sunday."

It's hard to picture a young lady who just this year made the Junior Olympic basketball squad bouncing a ball in a basement. Miss Bernier, who cracked the 15 and under JO team during the tryouts at Westwood High School last fall, will be with the team when it plays its slate of games in New Orleans this summer.

First game jitters
The soph standouts didn't just pick up the ball and begin to dominate MVC opponents from the outset. In fact, Patty rode the pines for a couple of games before getting her feet wet.

"My first game I was crying," said Patty in describing that initial varsity experience. "I did everything wrong, but then I did better. I didn't think I was good enough for the varsity, but all the kids talked to me after the Andover game and that gave me confidence," offered the TMHS guard.

Bernier, who was the team's center from almost day one, took those jitters a bit more in stride. "I was scared, wicked nervous, but it was easy, I guess," admitted Jerrie.

I guess. Jerrie went on to have what she considers her best game of the season - an 18 rebound, 23 point performance against Dracut. Patty liked her 16 point, five steal, five assists gem against Chelmsford.

A path to a college education
Athletics can help an outstanding athlete pay for all or a large part of a college education. Jerrie and Patty, although only sophomores, are looking down the road to college.

Jerrie wants to be a veterinarian, with an eye toward Tufts and Northeastern. "I went to the computer in school and found out all about that stuff," said the TMHS center.

While her buddy Jerrie informed her that the high school provides college information for sophomores, Patty made sure that I knew about her post-TMHS educational aspirations. "I'm going to college, I just don't know where yet."

Oh, those sacrifices
Bedchecks, homework after a rugged practice, games on a Friday or a Saturday night can cut deep into an athlete's social life and any hobbies that he or she might have.

That cut can run a bit deeper for a young girl when that important party or dance runs head-on into a night game at Dracut.

Patty, who can always find time to beach it with her buddies in the summertime, says that the whole team found time to go out together after a game late in the season.

Jerrie however, had to cut an emotional and creative tie with her love of horseback riding, having sold her horse just this past year to make room for her basketball skills.

Jerrie, who won a trophy for her abilities as an equestrian at the Westford Fair Grounds, had to make a tough decision. "I wasn't going to get anywhere with it (the horseback riding), and if you really want to be good at that sport you have to have a lot of money," said Jerrie.

How about a role switch?

Both Jerrie and Patty have very clearly defined roles on a team that went down to a tough 58-56 defeat against Wakefield in the first game of the Eastern Mass Tourney February 27.

But just once Patty would like to roam underneath among the giants, and Jerrie wishes she could try her hand at bringing the ball up court and sticking that 20 foot jumper.

"I can rebound better than I can dribble, but I wish I was a guard," said Jerrie. "I like to shoot from the outside. I think I took one outside shot all season," laments the TMHS 5-9 center, who says that she would still, "like to be taller."

Murphy, who like Bernier refines her particular skills with hard work over the summer months, dreams of being a dominant force around the bucket.

"I always practice rebounding. I got one rebound all year and I think I put it in," said Patty.

Playing in pain
So you think only the pros and the guys grimacing on the sideline with every timeout play in pain? Jerrie and Patty both have nagging problems with their right feet - injuries that cause them to have to play with some amount of pain on occasion.

Jerrie has a bone to the side of her right big toe that has plagued her for the entire volleyball and basketball seasons. She had the area x-rayed last fall and their might be an operation in her future next spring to correct the problem.

There would be a six month recuperation following any such surgery, leaving Jerrie plenty of time to get ready for the volleyball and basketball seasons. Unfortunately, the young lady is a three sport star, playing firstbase for the TMHS varsity softball team.

Jerrie is resigned to the fact that she must make some sacrifices to fashion and intestinal fortitude with this injury. "I have to wear ugly shoes and it aches sometimes," offers the TMHS soph.

Patty has a right foot nagger too, a bone she says that hinders the circulation in her toes. She saw a specialist during last track season, and a cast was all set and ready to go before Patty decided that it wasn't necessary just yet.

Splitting the defense

Patty Murphy is the penetrating guard who sets the Tewksbury offense in motion.

"It bothers me some, but it's getting better. It used to bother me every night," said Patty, who must make a decision whether to run track or play softball this spring.

Athletic equality
When I asked the rather obvious question about boys and girls playing on the same teams, the duo had a good answer. Essentially they echoed - yes, why not. Patty, who played on a boys Little League Baseball team (the Orioles) when she was in the fifth grade, was one of the first girls in the state to play with the boys on the same club.

And Jerrie, who is probably capable of taking this writer to the cleaners in a game of one-on-one, is clear on where she stands. "If a girl went out for soccer and she was as good as a guy then she should be allowed to play."

Frappes, practice pranks and 1000 points

Tewksbury junior guard Nancy Barbour ducks into the coaches room, where I'm talking with Jerrie and Patty, and passes her center a frappe. "Nancy always brings me frappes," offers Bernier. In exchange for an outlet pass perhaps?

The team engages in foul shooting contests with frappes as the high stakes. "Mr. Sheehan owed me two frappes, but he played me again until he won them back," said Murphy. Ah, the coach always gets even.

The team is loose both at game time and in practice. A tough game where they fall behind early doesn't seem just cause for panic to set in, and Jerrie and Patty are particularly adept at keeping the air light at just the right moment.

"I think we embarrass him (coach Sheehan) sometimes," offers Murphy. I don't think he's used to all the kidding around that we do."

The coach draws the line however. "The morning before the Wilmington game we were fooling around too much..." said Bernier.

Sheehan has known and watched Jerrie, the daughter of Joe Bernier and Dr. Jeane Whitehouse, and Patty, the daughter of Mike and Madeline Murphy, since they were just getting into the game of basketball.

"When we were little we always used to talk to him. He always told us to keep playing," said Jerrie.

"He's understanding, he doesn't scream, and he's pretty calm," offers Patty.

Well, Barry has two more years of frappe shooting, understanding and winning ahead of him with Jerrie and Patty very much a part of the ride. In fact, it can be said that the sophs have already given the girls basketball program at TMHS a big push in the direction of an MVC championship. With Barbour returning to the fold along with juniors Susan Farr (center-forward) and Annette Landry (guard), Tewksbury should be one of the favorites to make a run at the title in 1980-81.

"I think the world of Jerrie and Patty, because they're good people," offers Sheehan. They're going to progress as athletes as well as people. I think that they'll both be 1000 point scorers before they're finished.

Sheehan concludes his praise of the pair with what perhaps is an understatement. "I've never had two sophomores like Jerrie and Patty."

And what's really nice about this whole situation is that the coach may have a chance to say: "I've never had two juniors like Jerrie and Patty - and - I've never had two seniors like Jerrie and Patty."

Wilmington girls lead Nazareth

Our Lady of Nazareth Academy of Wakefield recently completed a successful basketball season by advancing to the finals of the Eastern Mass. High School Division III State Playoff Championship.

The Wakefield team captured the runner-up trophy, after losing to top-seeded Ipswich in the finals, Friday night, March 7 at Waltham High School.

The Nazareth quintet advanced to the championship round with a quarterfinal victory over Keith Hall, 52-48; followed by a 59-52 win over Greater Lowell in the semifinal round, before losing to Ipswich in the championship game, 53-29.

Four Wilmington girls contributed to the team's success during the past season. Lori Brozyna and Ann Domigan, both seniors, were members of the varsity squad, which compiled an impressive 15-6 record in its drive for the State Championship. Both girls were forwards on the team. In a key conference game late in the season, during the team's drive to qualify for the playoffs, Miss Brozyna sank a foul shot as time had run out on the clock to nip St. Mary's of Lynn, 54-53. This win sparked Nazareth on to victory in its two remaining conference games, and a qualifying spot in the Eastern Mass. Divisional playoffs.

Lynne Murphy, co-captain and starting forward on the junior varsity squad, was the team's leading scorer during the past season. Miss Murphy was moved up to the varsity for the team's playoff drive.

Patricia Domigan, a sophomore at Nazareth, was the starting center on the junior varsity team that compiled a 12-8 record. The combined records of the two squads was 27-14 during the past season.

Three way battle for second half honors

That last minute bug up and bit Aubut's Liquors in another tough-to-take loss to M&S Mobil last Thursday as the second half race of the Tewksbury Men's Basketball League was thrown into a logjam with both Aubut's and Sullivan's Insurance losing.

Aubut's, still tied with Sullivan's for first place in the second half, was battling for the right to play first half winner Mobil for the title April 3, but the defending champs threw a momentary monkey wrench into those plans with a come-from-behind 71-68 win, their third victory in four games with Aubut's this season.

In the nightcap Sullivan's Insurance had a chance to take the second half lead but saw that opportunity blown away by a 73-50 Jade East rout, as that club suddenly is in the hunt for the second half honors with a 3-2 record. Aubut's and Sullivan's are both 4-2 for the second half.

Thursday night (March 13) Aubut's hopes to snap a two game losing streak when they take on the surging Jade East in the first game starting at 7 p.m. Sullivan's Insurance looks to bounce back against slumping Wang Labs in the 8:30 p.m. nightcap at the TMHS gym.

A summary of last week's action:

M&S Mobil 71-Aubut's 68

Aubut's saw a five point lead with three minutes left to play melt away as Barry Sheehan (21) and Keith Caveney (18) led the Mobil surge. Brian Irwin also played a fine game for the winners with 15 points and Gene Manley contributed 14.

League leading scorer Chris Prince took game high honors with 16 points for Aubut's. Tom Geary, Mike Mangano and Gary Jenkins each had 10 points.

Jade East 73-Sullivan's Insurance 50 The Jade, who stumbled to a 3-8 first half slate, continued their surge for a piece of the second half action with this rout, sparked by Doug Ahern's 16 points, Rob Ahern's 14, and the rebounding of center Dave Haskell. Guard Tom Saunders also contributed to the win with 12 points.

Sullivan's, playing without star forward Jim Meuse, who has been slowed by a sore knee, had a tough time getting the attack in gear as Mike Manna - the other half of the M&M connection, was held to just 11 points.
